Changes are coming in Medicaid maternity reimbursement

WHEN?

These changes are effective January 1, 2021

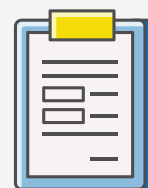

WHAT?

Affecting your reimbursement of prenatal services...

You must submit a Perinatal Risk Assessment PRA Plus form for your patient through Family Health Initiatives (FHI) for you to be reimbursed for their prenatal care.

- Your submission of PRA Plus First Visit, Follow Up, and Third Trimester PRA Plus forms are reimbursable services
- PRA Plus forms are required for patients in all Medicaid eligibility categories, and non-Medicaid individuals whose care is covered by Medicaid funding (e.g. undocumented individuals in New Jersey Supplemental Prenatal Care Program)
- Providers may access the FHI website at www.praspect.org
- For more information, see Medicaid Newsletter Vol 30 #24 on www.njmmis.com

Affecting your reimbursement of labor and delivery...

No professional and facilities claims for Early elective deliveries will be reimbursed.

- Early elective deliveries are medically-unnecessary C-sections or inductions prior to 39 weeks
- All labor and delivery claims must report an ICD-10-CM diagnosis code for week of gestation (category Z3A)
- Providers may access the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists and the March of Dimes Foundation websites for further clarification
- For more information, see Medicaid Newsletter Vol 30 #21 on www.njmmis.com

WHY?

These changes are happening to implement legislation passed and signed into law in NJ.
