Do members need to be enrolled in Medicaid to be eligible for the plan?

Care provider reimbursement

How will I be reimbursed if the member also has Medicaid?

Please submit claims for all covered Medicare benefits and services to UnitedHealthcare, which is the primary payer. After those claims are processed, you can submit claims to the member's Medicaid payer to cover the remaining cost share for eligible benefits and services.

The member should carry health insurance cards for both their UnitedHealthcare Medicare Advantage plan and their Medicaid benefits. Please check the member's Medicaid ID card at each visit for information on the Medicaid payer.

Do I need to be enrolled in the state Medicaid program to bill the member's Medicaid payer for eligible services?

Yes. For Medicare secondary cost-share billing purposes, you must enroll or register with the state Medicaid plan. This could include registering for a provider Medicaid ID number. Without that Medicaid ID number, you will not be reimbursed for any remaining deductible, copay or coinsurance amounts from the Medicaid payer.

Can I collect the copays, coinsurance and deductibles directly from the member instead of billing the Medicaid payer?

No. Care providers who participate in UnitedHealthcare Medicare Advantage plans may not bill, charge or collect a deposit from or seek payment or reimbursement from any Medicare patient whose Medicaid plan covers cost-sharing charges such as copays, coinsurance and deductibles. Once you receive the provider remittance advice (PRA) from UnitedHealthcare, you can bill the Medicaid payer for the remaining balance.
