

UnitedHealthcare Medicare Advantage Referral-Required Plans

2022 Overview

Members and PCPs working together to manage care

Some UnitedHealthcare® Medicare Advantage benefit plans require referrals for specialty care. These plans emphasize the role of the member's primary care provider (PCP). The PCP will manage referrals when a member seeks care from a network specialist or other health care professional. The PCP will also determine the appropriate number of visits and the timing for the referral and can submit additional referrals if a referral expires.

Identifying a member of a referral-required plan

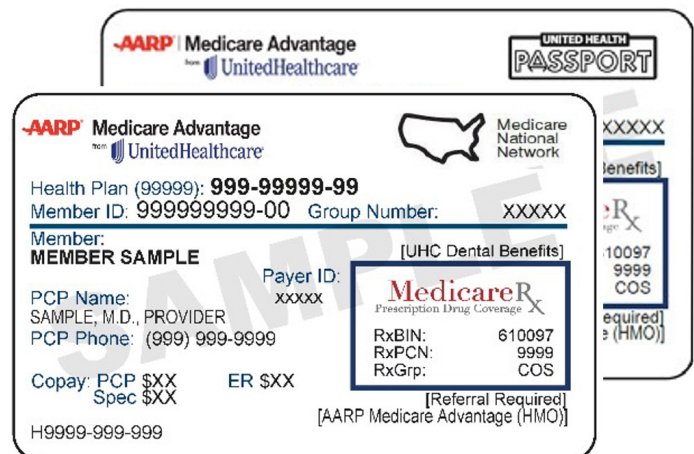

The member's ID will have the words "Referral Required" near the plan name on the front of the ID card. The plan number is also listed in EDI 271 response transactions and can be found when checking patient eligibility.

We have a list of the referral-required plan names and numbers in the UnitedHealthcare Medicare Advantage Referral-Required Plans quick reference guide at UHCprovider.com/plans > choose your state > Medicare.

Referral-Required Plans

Referrals are required for specialty care. Information on submitting referrals and the tools to help you submit electronically are at UHCprovider.com/referrals.

Members must choose a PCP or we will assign one to them. You'll find the PCP's name on the ID card, in the EDI 271 response transaction and when you verify eligibility.

You can find network specialists using our provider directory at UHCprovider.com/findprovider.

If the specialist doesn't verify that a referral is in place, claims will be denied and the member can't be billed. Coverage, cost share and benefits will be determined based on the member's benefit plan for services provided by a specialist.

Prior Authorization and Advance Notification requirements are in the UnitedHealthcare Administrative Guide at UHCprovider.com/guides and at UHCprovider.com/priorauth

Referrals aren't required when accessing UnitedHealthcare Medicare National Network or UnitedHealth Passport®, which allow for services while traveling.

Referrals are not required for facilities, ancillary providers or for certain services. Other services that do not require a referral are listed in the UnitedHealthcare Administrative Guide and in the UnitedHealthcare Medicare Advantage Referral-Required Plans quick reference guide.

*Individual Medicare Advantage plans with the Medicare National Network aren't currently available to residents of Alaska and Louisiana. However, we're developing the network in those states and members of plans with the Medicare National Network may seek care from any contracted, participating care providers.
