

Self Service Comparison Guide

Using EDI and Link to Get the Information You Need

This guide explains how you can use Electronic Data Interchange (EDI) and Link's online self-service tools to help you quickly get the information you need for most UnitedHealthcare benefit plan members.

	EDI	Link
What is It?	An automated way to exchange information with UnitedHealthcare and other payers	Self-service tools for UnitedHealthcare only. Check eligibility, manage claims and request prior authorization
How It Works	Integrated with practice management or hospital information systems through a clearinghouse	Online tools accessed through UHCprovider.com
When to Use It	To exchange data electronically for claims, eligibility, prior authorization requests, notifications, referrals and remittances	For more detailed information, or for transactions that aren't available with EDI
Submitting Requests	Batch or single transactions	Maximum of 20 transactions for eligibility, single submissions for other transactions
Information Received	Based on industry standards	Detailed information
Information Processing	Information is automatically uploaded	Information must be entered manually
