![UnitedHealthcare | March Vision Care]

March Outlook

UnitedHealthcare® I March® Vision Care
updates and vision industry information

Sign in to providers.eyesynergy.com with One Healthcare ID

To access your providers.eyesynergy.com account, you'll need a One Healthcare ID. If you haven't already linked your providers.eyesynergy.com account to your One Healthcare ID, read our Existing User Guide for help. If you're new to providers.eyesynergy.com, refer to our general User Guide for instructions on how to register and link your One Healthcare ID account.

An Inside Look

Explore our new COPE-accredited What's New in Glaucoma Management CE course

Review the increasing use of SLT as a first-line therapy, its clinical study rationale, the advent of micro-invasive glaucoma shunts (MIGS) and a future view of what glaucoma management may look like.

See more ⊙

Updated claim denial code descriptions

We've updated our claim denial code descriptions to help you better understand why your claim may have been denied and to ensure timely payments. Refer to our Claim Denial Quick Reference Guide for a list of commonly used denial codes that you may see on your Explanation of Payment.

Coming into focus

Where we've been

Our provider team has sponsored and attended different conferences and events across the country. Here's where we've been recently:

World Sight Day Event in Florida City, FL I Oct. 11–12, 2023
We attended a World Sight Day event and, in collaboration with OneSight, gave eye exams to 170 people. We also gave away 110 pairs of glasses, 35 pairs of reading glasses and 28 pairs of sunglasses.

Become certified in our Clinical Care and Coordination Program to help influence the best outcomes for diabetic members during National Diabetes-related Eye Disease Month

November is National Diabetes Month. Spread the word about how people with diabetes can protect their vision and partner with us to help screen and monitor patients with diabetes, including the potential for diabetic retinopathy.

See more ⊙

State news

Important information regarding Medicaid redeterminations in your state

States can use redeterminations to decide if individuals and their family members qualify for coverage through Medicaid or the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP). This change went into effect April 1, 2023.

Learn more ⊙